Cookie Statement

1.   General

Schelstraete Delacourt Associates Group (hereinafter "SDA", "we", "us") uses cookies and similar technologies on its website. This Cookie Statement (hereinafter "Cookie Statement") aims to inform you as a visitor about the use of these. This Cookie Statement applies to SDA's website www.s-d-a.eu .

In addition to this Cookie Statement, SDA also makes available a Privacy Statement of which this Cookie Statement is an integral part. For the collection and further processing of your personal data in general and your rights in this respect, we refer to this Privacy Statement. This Cookie Statement explains in more detail how we use cookies on our website.

2.   What are cookies?

Cookies are small information files that are stored by the internet browser on your computer or mobile device when you visit a website or when you use a (mobile) application. They work as a kind of reminder for a website. Thanks to cookies, our website can easily track specific information about our visitors and their surfing behavior. The term "cookies" also includes technologies that are similar to cookies, such as pixels, social plug-ins and certain scripts, as these can also collect data from you.

Cookies may be set by SDA itself ("first-party cookies") or by third parties ("third-party cookies"). Third-party cookies ensure that certain data resulting from your visit to or use of our website will be transmitted to the third party that has placed the cookies.

Cookies are sometimes placed temporarily ("session cookies", these are deleted when you close the browser) and sometimes permanently ("persistent" cookies, these remain until they expire or until you delete them).

3.   What do we use cookies for?

SDA distinguishes the following types of cookies when offering its website: (1) strictly necessary cookies, (2) analytical cookies and (3) advertising, tracking and social media cookies. Below we clarify what these cookies are used for.

3.1 Strictly necessary cookies

Strictly necessary cookies include technically essential cookies and functional cookies.

Technically essential cookies are necessary for purely technical reasons to enable communication between your device and our website.

Functional cookies ensure that the basic functionalities of our website work properly. These cookies are only placed after you as a visitor have taken a certain action on our website (e.g. clicking the button that makes the cookie banner disappear).

The use of technically essential and functional cookies is necessary for the security and proper functioning of the basic functionalities of our website. In any case, these cookies are only stored on your device to perform the functions mentioned above, which means that the impact on your privacy is minimal.

3.2 Analytical cookies

Analytical cookies allow us to learn more about how you as a visitor interact with and respond to the content of our website. This enables us to make our website even more attractive. The information in question is used to create and analyze statistics on the use of our website at a total level.

3.3 Advertising, tracking and social media cookies

Advertising, tracking and social media cookies are mainly cookies used for the purpose of displaying advertisements, implementing features on our website provided by social media, and measuring how often these advertisements and features are displayed and used respectively. This category includes, for example, the cookies that enable you to see ads from SDA on social networks you use after visiting our website.

4.   What cookies do we use?

Below is the list of individual cookies we use on our website, along with their technical characteristics and purposes.

4.1 Strictly necessary cookies
